'Chardonnay is such a strong point of the Orange region. This has really got it going on. It's a wine of delicacy and finesse, but it does not lack power. Lemons, almonds, nectarine and subtle toasty oak. Whispers of estery, bubble gum-like flavour - but to such a low level that no one will complain. As a closet wine show judge I'd give this a gold medal.' 94/100 points

Australian Gourmet Traveller Wine Magazine

This is a fine, seamless chardonnay with nutty fruit and barrel-influenced bouquet but not overly oaky at all. The palate has subtlety and taut intensity, finesse and length with good acidity that's so well integrated it's barely noticeable. Lovely drink. 91/100 points.

Good Living, Huon Hooke.

'A subtle, nutty, quite savoury styl with very discrete oak and a very soft palate...Subtlety, refinement and balance are its strengths...' 91/100 points
